★ House Republican whip Bob Michel will introduce legislation making it a crime for publications like Counter-Spy to disclose the identities of U.S. intelligence agents and make them vulnerable to assassination attempts. Referring to the recent murder of CIA station chief Richard Welch in Greece, Michel said, "We cannot allow the operations of our intelligence agencies to be undermined by disloyal citizens with an ax to grind. I believe anyone who reveals such a secret intentionally is morally guilty of being an accessory to murder in the event his revelation leads to a killing such as Welch's."
